Psalm 103:1-14

Bless the Lord, O my soul, and all that is within me, bless his holy name! Bless the Lord, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits, who forgives all your iniquity, who heals all your diseases, who redeems your life from the pit, who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy, who satisfies you with good so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's. The Lord works righteousness and justice for all who are oppressed. He made known his ways to Moses, his acts to the people of Israel. The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love. He will not always chide, nor will he keep his anger forever. He does not deal with us according to our sins, nor repay us according to our iniquities. For as high as the heavens are above the earth, so great is his steadfast love toward those who fear him; as far as the east is from the west, so far does he remove our transgressions from us. As a father shows compassion to his children, so the Lord shows compassion to those who fear him. For he knows our frame; he remembers that we are dust.

APPLICATION

Luther's "Simple Way to Pray"

_____:

How can I love and bless God on the basis of this?
What do I see here that I can praise him for?

_____:

How do I fail to realize this in my life?
What wrong behavior, harmful emotions or attitudes result when I forget this?

_____:

How can I thank Jesus as the ultimate revelation of this attribute (his forgiveness, treating me better than I deserve, etc.) and the ultimate answer to this sin or need of mine (my distorting his ways, my idolatry, my "dust-ness")?

_____:

How does this show me what I should or could be and do?
How would I be different if this truth were powerfully real to me?
