

Ice Breaker Questions

Ice breaker questions can be a really great way to set group discussion up for success. They can be a great transition into discussion, and the goal is to get everyone talking. To do that, ask easy questions, utilize questions that help people get to know each other, and help everyone feel at ease. This is important because if someone talks once, they'll probably talk again later in the spiritual discussion. Below are some potential icebreakers you can use to get your group talking!

1. What is your favorite movie? (Or genre of movie)
2. What is your favorite ice cream flavor?
3. How do you like your eggs cooked?
4. What was the last TV show you watched?
5. Which season do you prefer, and why? (Fall, Winter, Spring Summer)
6. If you could live anywhere, where it would be, and why?
7. What was your first job?
8. What's been the highlight of your week?
9. What are you thankful for right now?
10. What is one book that has impacted you in the past year?
11. Who is one person that has had a big influence in your life?
12. If you could be any superhero, which one would you choose, and why?
